For all awards, nominations must be submitted via the UGS Fellowships & Awards Canvas course to the University Graduate School. Nominations must come from a department or school. Student self-nominations will not be accepted.

Application/Nomination Process

Students must submit their applications and required materials to their school/department. Please refer students to our website, <https://graduate.indiana.edu/admissions/financial-support/fellowships-awards/index.html>, to access the award/fellowship applications.

All schools/departments have their own internal student application deadline for each award/fellowship competition. The University Graduate School deadlines are for schools/departments ONLY.

The school/department is responsible for reviewing the applications received and making the determination if they wish to nominate the candidate for the award. It's the school/departments responsibility to make sure all required material has been received and included in the nomination.

Nominations must be submitted through the UGS Fellowships & Awards Canvas course by the school/department (<https://iu.instructure.com/courses/1630134>). To upload a nomination, click on "Assignments" on the left-hand sidebar menu and department faculty or staff will be able to upload the nomination as a single PDF to the assignment that corresponds with the award for which the student is being nominated.

Schools/Departments are responsible for contacting the candidates that have applied, but were not chosen for nomination.

Faculty and staff who need access to the Canvas course to upload nominations should send a request with their user id and department name to ugsawrd@indiana.edu.
